TO: All Sequel Special Products and Sequel Medical Design Customers
RE: Sequel Special Products and Sequel Medical Design is now Biomedical Innovations

I am pleased to announce that Sequel Special Products and Sequel Medical Design (manufacturing and design services) is now a part of Biomedical Innovations, A Nissha Company. Biomedical Innovations is the premier medical device contract manufacturer with global corporate headquarters in Buffalo, New York. Please note that this new branding will merely enable us to more accurately reflect our contract manufacturing capabilities and in no way impacts your contracted legal entity (which will remain Sequel Special Products).

Who we are

Biomedical Innovations is a leader in contract manufacturing of finished consumable medical devices, deploying a one partner strategy at every step of the way from concept and prototype to distribution and fulfillment. Additionally, Biomedical Innovations' global footprint provides scalability options, including: manual assembly, semi-automation and full automation.

What does this mean to you?

The change will be effortless for you. The Sequel Special Products (manufacturing and design services) will transition into Biomedical Innovations simply means that you now have a global partner in all your contract manufacturing and line transfer needs. We specialize in custom Critical Care Devices, Therapeutic Devices, Minimally Invasive Devices, Wearables and Life Science Disposables. We also have the ability to private label ECG Electrodes, Muscle & Nerve Stimulation Electrodes, Medical Chart Papers and Grounding Pads.

Legal Entity

Sequel Special Products will still remain as the legal entity. As such, there will be no changes to your vendor qualification, contracting and regulatory requirements.
